Work Environments

Your motivations are optimized and your contributions are maximized in the right environment, and thereby the right career role. Consider how this motivation may affect the environment where you work and the type of career roles you might be considering.

Review the ideal work environments provided in your report for your top 5 motivations. List the types of environments that you enjoy, find satisfaction in engaging, and have found yourself to be productive. List the most motivating environments on the left and the most demotivating environments on the right. If there are environments that you are unsure, yet peak your interest, place those in the middle.
